

SHE CAUGHT
ME STAKING
AGAIN

SHADY AFRO LAMA

She sat down next to her friends, but it looked like she was in her own world, a world that wanted to peek into, she was wearing her headphones and mumbling the words to the song while nodding to the beat, she looked like she took off to that world to remove all the weight off her shoulders and for a few minutes not care about a single thing... She leaned forward with a slouched posture and went with her slender fingers through her pretty curls and i found myself following her movements to a T forgetting about my own world, i was intrigued and i started wondering ; who is she? What does she sound like? Does she have a boyfriend? Or is she interested in anyone...? She looks up, our eyes might have met... I think she caught me staring at her...

On the cobblestone road we walked side by side, the breeze of the sea giving off a great atmosphere we walked for hours went through so many topics from family to friends, music and other random topics but the flirtatious tinge was a constant throughout the journey, she often switched from a pretty shy smile to a cute little smirk depending on what I've said beforehand... We stopped and sat down on beachside bench with our shoulders leaning on each other ,for a lasting moment silence filled the place yet I felt like we were still communicating every time our hands touched, I turned to her while she was looking at the scenery; her eyes were so dreamy maybe thinking about a different reality or looking into a near future, the sunshine went through her hair, highlighting a goldish lighter color, the one she said she really liked, but I still think it looks beautiful in all of its states... While I was still mesmerized, her vision transitioned to me, and she caught me staring again... She sat down at a coffee shop studying and I sat across the table, doing nothing but watching her as she holds the pen between her fingers and twirls it around, I followed her eyes as she was following the ink on her papers, her hair covered most of her face but I was still able to take peek at her cute little face, she unveiled it shortly after, revealing me watching her charming face and captivating figure, I was in a whole other world, a world of wonder, a beautifully written story, I'm not sure what our future holds for us but what I'm sure of is that I've fallen for her and I don't care if she catches me staring again.